

4 years of Billie Eilish

Rising to stardom at the age of 15, Billie Eilish has quickly imprinted her name on the world's music industry. Gaining 257,000 followers to 67.5 million in just 3 years, Eilish swept the 2020, winning five awards including Best New Artist, Best Song, Best Album, Best Record, and Best Pop Vocal Album. Since her claim to fame, Vanity Fair has sat down with her each year to ask her the same questions.

SAME INTERVIEW, FOUR DIFFERENT YEARS

How many Instagram followers do you have?

What is the first thing you did when you woke up this morning?

What is most important to you right now?

How do you define your style in 3 words?

Favorite movie?

Ok, well I looked at my phone... That's what I did this morning.

The people that support me, my fans... which I don't like to call fans. And my family, you know.

Judge me, please.

I think I made myself a burrito for breakfast with a gluten-free tortilla.

Finishing this album. And doing the craziest shows I'm capable of doing in the next month.

I don't, and then one word, f*cking-know.

Fruitvale Station.

I woke up and then... pooped. That's what I did. hey, you asked.

Maintaining my happiness, which I've been experiencing for like, the first time, in many years. I want to stay happy, that's a big goal for me.

It's MY style.

I looked at my phone. Classic day.

Keeping my family safe and, you know, staying up. There's not much else to do right now.

Billie Eilish parody.

You know what I'm about to say... Fruitvale Station.
