

Indiana University Football, historically a laughingstock, changing fortunes with head coach Tom Allen

Indiana University's football team, one of the worst in the history of collegiate football, has experienced a culture shift under head coach Tom Allen. Indiana — known to football fans as the team with the most losses in NCAA history — achieved only its third ever top-15 finish last season. The future is bright for the football Hoosiers following back-to-back Bowl appearances and Allen's signing of a $4.9 million per year contract through 2027 on March 8, 2021, establishing him as a long-term leader for the program.

WIN PERCENTAGE OF HOOSIER COACHES

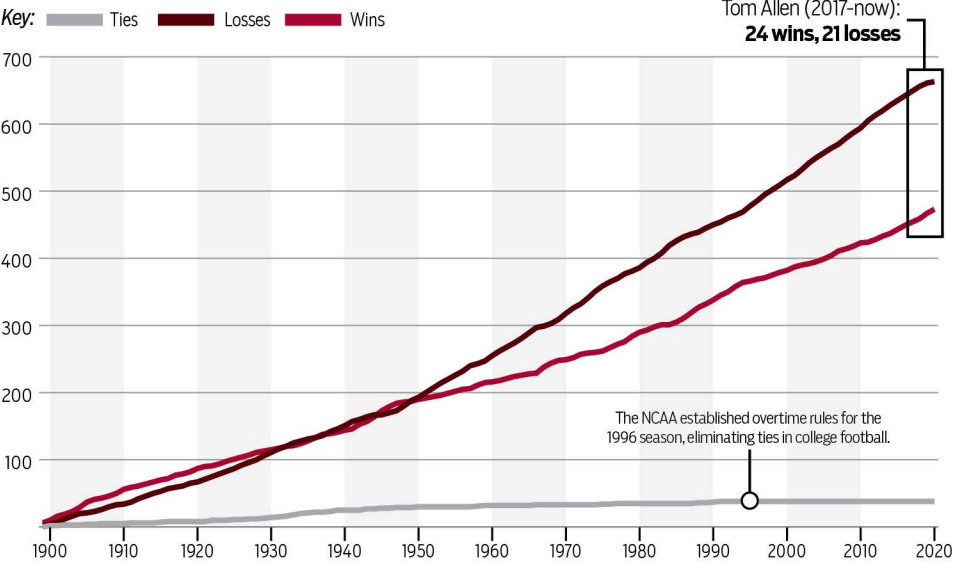

Average win percentage of head coaches in their first four seasons at IU

Note: * Indicates coaches who did not complete at least four seasons as head coach

INDIANA FOOTBALL ALL TIME WINS, LOSSES AND TIES

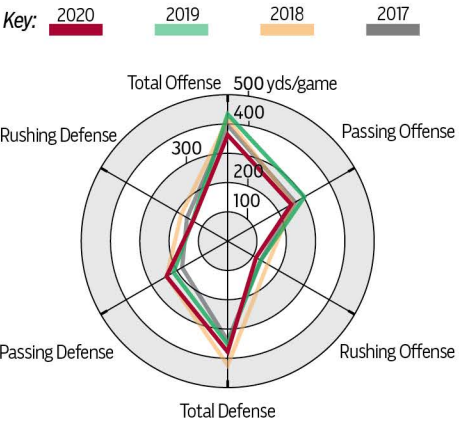

IU football has played 1174 total games following the 2020 season

Source: College Football Reference

OFFENSE & DEFENSIVE STATS UNDER TOM ALLEN

Passing, rushing and total offense and defense each season, measured in yards per game

Colin Kuipa | J464